Some of this data is special category (sensitive) personal data and therefore additional safeguards are put in place to protect this data further. Special category data is defined as racial/ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs, trade union membership, health data, genetic data, biometric data, sex life, sexual orientation.

The information source

The information is collected in a variety of ways. Some information is collected directly from you. Other sources can include: third parties for references, PVG checks with Disclosure Scotland, application forms, CVs or resumes, passport or other identity documents such as driving licence, forms completed by you at the start of or during employment, from correspondence with you or through interviews, meetings or other assessments.

The Presbytery may also collect personal data about you from third parties, such as references supplied by former employers and, where applicable, information from criminal records checks permitted by law.

The lawful basis for processing

The lawful basis for processing for employment purposes is UK GDPR Article 6(1)(b) “processing is necessary for the performance of a contract to which the data subject is party or in order to take steps at the request of the data subject prior to entering into a contract”.

There are some aspects of processing where the lawful basis is UK GDPR Article 6(1)(c) “processing is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation to which the controller is subject”. This is in relation to checking employee’s right to work in the UK, tax deduction, health and safety and criminal records check/PVG to ensure that individuals are permitted to undertake the role in question.

Where special category (sensitive) personal data is involved, the lawful basis for processing is UK GDPR Article 9(2)(b) “processing is necessary for the purposes of carrying out the obligations and exercising specific rights of the controller or of the data subject in the field of employment and social security and social protection law in so far as it is authorised by domestic law or a collective agreement pursuant to domestic law providing for appropriate safeguards for the fundamental rights and the interests of the data subject”

Who the information is shared with:

Your information will be shared internally, including with members of the Presbytery, your line manager and the National Office [and insert any others].

The Presbytery may share your data with third parties in order to obtain pre-employment references from other employers and obtain necessary criminal records checks from Disclosure Scotland.

How long the personal data is held for

The Presbytery will hold your personal data for the duration of your employment. The periods for which your data is held after the end of employment are set out in the Retention and Disposal Schedule available from the Presbytery Office.

Individuals’ rights in relation to this processing

Under data protection laws, individuals have a number of rights in relation to the processing of their personal data. These rights are as follows:

- The right to be informed – this privacy notice meets that right.
- The right of access – this means you have the right to have access or receive copies of personal data held by the organisation
- The right to rectification – this means you have the right to correct incomplete or inaccurate data held about you
- The right to erasure – this means you have the right to have your data deleted from an organisation’s records.
- The right to restrict processing – this means you have the right to restrict processing. This right is normally used with other rights, e.g. rectification
- The right to data portability – this means you have the right to request your data in a machine-readable format (e.g. a .csv file) and transfer this to another organisation

- The right to object – this means you have the right to object to how your data is processed
- Rights in relation to automated individual decision making, including profiling – the Church does not carry out this type of processing.

Not all rights apply and it depends on the lawful basis as to what rights do apply. For the processing purposes of this privacy notice the right to object does not apply. All other rights do apply. If you wish to exercise any of your rights please contact the main contact for queries in relation to this processing, the Presbytery Clerk, who will process your request accordingly.

Complaints to the Church of Scotland

If you are concerned about how your personal data is being used by the Church of Scotland, please contact - in the first instance - the main contact for queries in relation to this processing namely the Presbytery Clerk at SouthWestScotland@churchofscotland.org.uk and the Church of Scotland Data Protection Officer at Privacy@churchofscotland.org.uk, if required.

Complaints to the UK Information Commissioner's Office (ICO)
